As the current assistant principal, Robert Bauer, plans his retirement, Terrence Narinesingh, Ed. S. steps up to take the position.

“The opportunity presented itself because one of the current assistant principals is retiring. I saw this as a chance to share what I know with the stakeholders here at Bak and to work with the students,” Narinesingh said.

Narinesingh started teaching in 2006 as a high school science teacher. He was then promoted to instructional specialist, assistant principal, and adjunct professor of Educational Leadership at Barry University.

“I started as a teacher at John I. Leonard High School. After that, I was promoted to the district office as part of an administrative team to improve student achievement. Most recently, I was an administrator in Area 1 that helped student achievement with a combo of middle and high School students,” Narinesingh said. “I formerly taught earth-space science, biology, and chemistry. I have an undergraduate degree in biology and a master’s degree in student achievement and leadership.”

Not only does Narinesingh get lots of support from the Bak staff, his family has also inspired him in his educational career.

“I became an administrator because my sister was a teacher and my father is also currently a math teacher, so they inspired me to be an administrator,” Narinesingh said. “I am able to impact student achievement in a bigger perspective.”

Although his first day was a learning experience trying to get acclimated to the campus, Narinesingh said that, “Everyone has been very supportive. I feel like I am part of a family.”

“Bak is very reputable in terms of having honorable students and a great staff. I wanted to have the challenge of working in an art school. I am very humbled to be a part of such a fantastic team.” Narinesingh said, “I look forward to working with everyone and being a part of a great team here at Bak.”
